2016 EHF Top Coaches' and EHF Licence Renewal Seminar

14 - 17 January 2016 in Krakow / POL

EUROPEAN HANDBALL
FEDERATION

Host City - Krakow, Poland

Kraków is also known as Cracow, or Krakow and it's one of the oldest cities in Poland. First information about this city dates back to at least six hundred years after the birth of Christ. A myth says that it was built on the cave of a dragon, which was slain by a legendary King Krak. However, the first official mention of the name was in 966 by a Jewish merchant from Spain, who described it as an important centre of trade in Slavonic Europe. Apart from that, Krakow was also the capital of Poland from 1038 to 1569 and from 1569 to 1596 (Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth). This long history has made it one of the leading hubs of Polish academic, cultural, and economic life.

In 1241, the city was almost entirely destroyed by Tatars and it was rebuilt to a design that remains unchanged to the present day. After that, in the 16th century Krakow's has his golden age and had become a centre of science and art. Unfortunately, in 1609, King Zygmunt III officially moved the capital to the Warsaw. Kraków is not only a historical and visual gem, it's the second largest city in Poland and it has a population of circa 1.4 million (including surrounding communities). This exceptional town is situated in the southern region of Poland, both banks of the city are covered by Vistula river and the view is breathtaking.

The main part of the city which is worth to seeing is the Wawel Castel hill, Jewish district called "Kazimierz", the district of Nowa Huta and the historic Old Town. Nowadays it's officially situated in Stare Miasto. Even though the words Stare Miasto means 'old town', it should not be confused with the historic old town of Krakow itself, as the medieval old town is only a small central part of this district. It's worth to mention that Krakow is one the most popular tourist destination in Poland. Krakow's historic centre, covering the Old Town and Wawel was entered on the UNESCO list of World Heritage Sites in 1978. The heritage of the Jewish culture in Kazimierz is really worth to seeing. For Example, the synagogue of Remuh was built in 1557 and it creates an atmosphere with its old walls and ancient vestments. Nearby, there is a cemetery created in 1511 and has been recently restored. The atmosphere is very melancholic there and this place deserves to be visited. Nowa Huta is worth visiting too. It was built during the Communist Era, and was designated for the people working in the huge steelworks (5 times larger than the Old Town of Krakow). The architecture of this area is typical for socialism - huge buildings surround by green parks, but nowadays it is poor, and you can find there the real uneasiness of those times.

Travellers who visit Krakow often want to see The "Wieliczka" Salt Mine which is one of the most valuable monuments of material and spiritual culture in Poland. It is also a world class monument, UNESCO listed the Mine as a World Cultural and Natural Heritage site. Each year it is visited by more than one million tourists from all over the world. Today, the "Wieliczka" Salt Mine combines many centuries of tradition and modernity, the history of several hundred years and an underground metropolis with extensive infrastructure.
